TWO MINERS DIE IN COLEMAN MINE

George Lethian and John Labdek, miners, were killed by gas in the International mine near York Creek on Saturday morning last, while Walter Nelson, a fire boss with them, was so overcome by the fumes that many hours resuscitation was necessary to bring him back to consciousness, though even yet his condition is precarious.

The men were found missing when the Saturday morning shift was coming out and a search was immediately instituted. Lethian and Labdek were dead when found, while there was still life in Nelson. By the afternoon, the latter had sufficiently recovered to be able to talk to the rescuers.

Lethian is a returned soldier and Labdek was a native of Czechoslovakia.

The remains of Labdek were laid to rest at Coleman yesterday afternoon and the funeral of Lethian will likely take place today.

Both the victims were married and leave families residing in Coleman. An inquest into the fatality is proceeding.

COUNCIL VOTES $100 TO PUBLIC LIBRARY

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the town council on Monday night, Mayor Farmer presided, with Councillors Sartoris, McVey, Hamilton and Morgan and Secretary Kelly present.

The minutes of previous regular meeting were approved and a number of accounts were passed for payment.

The request for support of the newly-formed public library was given consideration, and upon motion by Councillor Morgan a grant of $100 was made. Councillor Sartoris registered opposition.

The auditor's reports for the quarter and nine months ending September 30th, respectively, were read and ordered filed.

CLAIM BRITISH MINERS USED TO BREAK STRIKE

Telegrams and cables protesting against the use of British miner-harvesters as strike breakers have been sent to Right Hon. Mackenzie King, premier; Hon. Peter Hoennan, minister of labor; Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the British labor party, and the British Miners' Federation, following a mass meeting of striking miners at Wayne, which was addressed by President Frank Wheatley and Vice-President Stokolok, of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada.

According to Mr. Wheatley, a number of men were brought to the Rosedale mine, some of whom were Britishers, while assurances had been made by government officials that "under no circumstances would these men be allowed to interfere with any industrial dispute."

POLICE TO ENFORCE GAME LAWS

As the result of the arrangement reached by the department of agriculture, the attorney general's department and the Alberta provincial police, administration of The Game Act will be carried on as in the past by the game commissioner's branch of the department of agriculture, and enforcement of the provisions of the act will be placed in the hands of the police and the voluntary game guardians, of whom there are several hundred scattered throughout the province.

An anonymous publication appeared to householders through the mail this morning, bearing the title "The Blairmore News," and boasting for the patronage of Calgary merchants.

ALBERTA COAL OPERATORS AGAINST DUTY REMOVAL

The operators of the bituminous coal mines of Alberta yesterday registered their unqualified disapproval of the application of the Crows' Nest Pass Coal Company for the removal of the fifty-cents-a-ton duty on bituminous coal coming into Canada. This disapproval was expressed in a brief submitted on their behalf before the advisory tariff board at Ottawa by Mr. A. L. Smith, of Calgary. The hearing started yesterday. The company wants the Canadian tariff of 50 cents removed because at present the United States tariff is reciprocal, being fixed at whatever figure Canada imposes, and they take the position that if Canada removed its duty, Canadian coal would go into the States free. The company claim that as a result of the Great Northern Railway turning to oil because of the duty, they had lost a business of 300,000 tons a year.

Mr. Smith said the Alberta operators took the position that if the duty were removed they would lose the business of at least two divisions of railway which would find it cheaper to buy United States coal. The railways have begun using Alberta coal now for the Kenora and Sioux Lookout, but the margin of profit of the coal companies was so small that two divisions would be lost without the protection now in effect.

The opinion was expressed by Mr. Smith that the attitude of the United States administration would indicate that congress would keep the present duty even if Canada dropped hers in view of the big surplus across the line. He stressed the difficulty of the Alberta operators in holding their market under present conditions. Any disturbance of these conditions would give the United States coal further advantage and would practically mean the closing down of at least two of the largest mines in the province.

One of the greatest obstacles to the extension of market for Alberta coal is the practice of dumping that is continuously carried on by the United States interests despite the objections and representations made by the Alberta operators, the brief asserted.

It was charged that United States coal interests were represented by dealers in parts of Canada who tendered for coal contracts at distress rates.

Under such conditions it is economically impossible for Canadian coal to compete, Mr. Smith said. In our estimation it is a rank outrage that such practices should be allowed to continue in the face of the fact that Canadian mines and miners are idle for practically half of each year, while the Dominion and provincial governments being asked for assistance to keep those same miners and their families from starving.

The operators' brief pointed out that the Alberta bituminous mines represented an invested capital of nearly thirty millions, employed an average of 3612 men in 1927 with an annual payroll of $5,270,000 and during the same year purchased supplies well over the million dollar mark. It was further shown that Alberta mines had produced nearly three million tons of bituminous coal against approximately 700,000 tons by the Crows' Nest Pass company.

The Alberta coal mines were among the largest on the American continent, fully equipped with modern machinery for the production and preparation of coal. "We believe they are as economically and efficiently operated as any other company," Mr. Smith said, "but with the handicaps already confronting the operators, removal of the present tariff safeguards would be a serious blow to them."

Match Paper For Plants

Found Highly Efficient in Increasing Production Of Farm Products
Remarkable success has attended the utilization of match paper, recently developed by the International Paper Company, which has greatly increased the production of varied farm products, in some cases as high as five hundred per cent. Match paper is laid on the ground between the plants, or, alternatively, the plants are placed in the soil through the holes made in the paper. It has proven highly efficient in stifling weed growth and preventing rapid evaporation of soil moisture. The dark colour of match paper attracts soil heat and increases the temperature of the soil.

Troubled With Painful Eruptions Cuticura Healed

"I was troubled with itchy, sore eruptions on my head for over a year. They were very embarrassing in company as I wanted to be scratching all the time, and if I did scratch them a watery fluid came from them. They were very painful, and my hair began to fall out. I tried many remedies during that time but without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some. The irritation stopped after one week's treatment, and after using three boxes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss B. THE PRAYERS OF PAUL

Golden Text: "Rejoice always; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks."—1 Thessalonians 5:16-18.
Lesson: Acts 20:36-38; Romans 1:8-10; Ephesians 1:15-23; 3:14-21; 1 Thessalonians 1:2-4.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 34:1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Paul Prays With the Ephesian Elders, Acts 20:36-38.—Here we return to the scene on the shore of Miletus, our lesson three weeks ago. When Paul ended his talk with the elders who had come from Ephesus to meet him, he knelt on the shore and prayed with them. No doubt Paul was accustomed to deepen and consecrate his friendship with his co-workers by praying with them.

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. Wherefore let thy voice rise like a fountain for me night and day."

For what are men better than sheep and goats?

That nourish a blind life within the brain.

If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer.

Both for themselves and those who call them to attend?

For so the whole round earth is every way bound by gold chains about the feet of God."—Tennyson.

Paul's Thanksgiving and Prayer, Ephesians 1:15, 16.—"The Epistles of Paul generally begin with thanksgiving, the subject of which is the work of God already accomplished in those to whom he writes; and this thanksgiving is followed by a prayer in which the apostle asks that the gracious work may go on in their souls. After this, he passes to the subject he proposes to treat. In the Epistle to the Ephesians he commences with thanksgiving and prayer; and, if I may so speak, he never gets beyond this, and all that he has to impart to his readers is included in the outpouring of gratitude and desire which runs through the whole of the first three chapters. All that follows from the beginning of Chapter IV, is only the practical application of this true apprehension of the divine work."—F. Godet.

Since as I have heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love for the saints, wrote Paul, I mention you in my prayers (Ephesians 1:15-16). Paul was in prison in Rome when he wrote these words, but the prison and its chains could not keep him from caring for his flock by bringing them in prayer to God.

"Praised be his prayers made mention of persons and groups of persons. Are our prayers as personal and specific as they ought to be? The very health-rebuke us in this matter. On an old scrap of papyrus was written in Egypt, in 172 B.C., a letter from a sister to her brother, saying, 'I continue praying to the gods for your welfare, continually making mention of you. When I got your letter, immediately I thanked the gods for your welfare,' which of us is not rebuked by the figure of the affectionate heathen girl turning from her letter to a grateful prayer. Perhaps the whole trouble lies in our neglect of thanksgiving."—G. A. Johnston Ross.

Fox Ranching Profitable

Prince Edward Island Still Leading District in Canada

Fox ranchers claim that it is a profitable pursuit, and evidently there is something in it when the application for registration continues to rise rapidly year after year. Applications received at Ottawa for inspection to Oct. 1 this year ran over 56,500, and more have come in since that time. Prince Edward Island is still the great fox-raising Province. Over 23,000 of the 56,500 applications come from the Garden of the Gulf. New Brunswick is second with nearly 9,500, and Ontario third, with 5,210, is the Province which is making the greatest proportionate increase.

As a vermicide an excellent preparation for fox-raising continues to rise. Terminator. It has saved the lives of countless children.

Total Found Guilty

Verdict Of Guilty For Both Total and the Nun Conception

The jury returned a verdict of guilty for both Jose de Leon Toral and the nun Conception, at the conclusion of their trial in the jury was only out one hour and forty minutes.

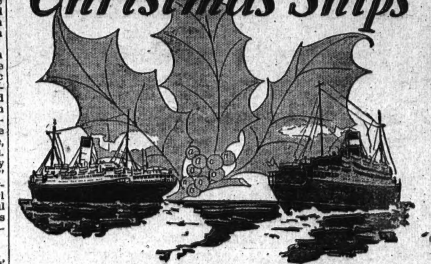

Toral and Conception have been on trial for the past week on charges of murder growing out of Toral's assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon, on July 17. It was the defence contention that the crime was of a political nature and as such, under Mexican law, could not draw the death penalty. The prosecution asked only life imprisonment for the nun Conception, who was charged as "the intellectual author" of the crime.

The judge pronounced a sentence of death for Toral and of twenty years' imprisonment for the nun Conception. The defence announced that it expected to appeal to the Mexican supreme court.

For a short interval the noble animal held his majestic pose, then swaying awkwardly, he disappeared from view. At the sharp crack of the rifle the man by Donald's side winced as though the bullet had seared his own flesh. Brushing the sleeve of his coarse mackinaw shirt hastily across his eyes, he muttered a curse, then turned and ran with stumbling steps to his waiting team, mounded the seat and checked gently to his four horses. The big animals strained against their collars. The huge load moved slowly at first, then gathering momentum, rolled swiftly up the road.

Gillis brought five cayuses to the rear of the station and in a few minutes his practised hands loaded two of them with his luggage.

The small cavalcade moved up the dusty road in a single file, with Douglas in the lead. They overtook and met numbers of freight wagons going in and out, the drivers shouting greetings to each other in foreign tongues. They passed the truck-laying machine, which was throwing the heavy rails about as if they were matches in giant hands. Guards stopped them without the zone of flying debris while giant blasts rent the air as if some titanic monster had torn the earth asunder. Huge rocks soared above the trees, then crashed to the ground with sickening thuds, while small pebbles spattered about them.

Through the trees they saw a cloud of steam and smoke. The air was filled with incessant, quick steam-whistles as a huge steam-shovel growled and tore like a ravenous monster at the gravelled hillside. Four men bearing a stretcher came slowly down the trail. A man on horseback, wearing riding breeches and leather leggings, rode in their wake.

"How are you, Doctor Paul?" greeted Douglas. "Is it a serious accident?"

"Yes fell on him. Broke both legs, and he is hurt internally—won't live," answered the doctor in a low voice.

Donald glimpsed the face of the sufferer showing ashen through a stubby beard. Bloody bandages framed two crimson-stained lips, from which issued the guttural groans of agony. They moved on in silence for a few moments.

"When people ride in trains," observed Gillis, "there ain't one in a thousand that knows what it costs in sufferin' and lives to make it so's they can ride in comfort."

By mid-afternoon they came to the vanguard of the army of workers, the men who were clearing the right-of-way. At intervals they could hear the long-drawn cry of the choppers as the top of a giant tree shivered and then with a great rending crash fell to earth with a resounding roar. Here they came to the end of the new road, and with a feeling of relief they plunged into the cool shadow of the virgin woods. After the great clamour, the forest, through which the trail wandered devotedly, seemed steeped in primal calm. The roar of the blasts no longer came in definite crashes, but was smothered by the distance to a muffled rumble.

A rider jogging down the trail reined in his horse and shouted a cheery greeting in true Western style. He was a clean-limbed, alert young man, with a frank smile, and seemed elastic with the sword-keen health of outdoors. He swung easily from the saddle and introduced himself.

"My name is Wilkinson. I am the District Ranger. It's getting a bit dry in spots, so I want you to be careful about your fires."

When Douglas told him the object of their trip to Summit Lake the Ranger smiled apologetically.

"My warning was unnecessary, then. I took you for a party of campers. I'm following the construction work, so will probably see you again before long."

He mounted his cayuse, waved his hand in farewell, then galloped down the trail.

The narrow path wound around the boles of enormous trees towering high above them, some of the tallest being nearly two hundred feet in height. Gillis appraised them with a critical eye. He was thinking of them as logs, calculated in terms of board feet, but over Donald's right beauty and nobility cast a strange spell. How long had these monarchs enjoyed the repose so soon to be broken by puny man? Probably some of them were good-sized trees when Columbus discovered America.

The solemnity of the forest was at times broken by the sharp "ka-a-a-a-h" of startled deer as they caught their scent, or the sudden hum of wings as big blue-grouse shot up from their path. Once the horses pricked up their ears and snorted in fear as a bear crashed his way through the deep woods.

As daylight abandoned the forest and twilight made eerie shadows on the dusky trail, they swung to an open space on the banks of the roaring Cheekamus River, and made camp for the night.

At daybreak they began the upward climb, and by noon felt the buoyancy of the air in the higher altitude. They crossed rushing streams and skirted the shores of small lakes on whose waters rested flocks of ducks in gregarious raft-like formations. The cayuses with their enormous packs showed signs of fatigue, and Gillis called frequent halts as the trail gradually grew steeper.

"We are nearly there," cried Douglas eagerly.

A few minutes later they topped a heavily-wooded hill and swung in to a narrow path on their right. There was no need to guide the horses, as they knew that here were rest and food for them.

There was a sudden quickening along the line. Donald's horse broke into a can, with Andy's close behind, the latter holding to the rear of his saddle and making a wry face.

"I wish I knew 'ow to keep this 'ere blinkin' ass down comin' up and hittin' me in the seat," said Andy querulously.

Donald reined in his eager horse as they emerged from the woods and an enchanting scene burst on his view.

"This blinkin' 'orse is . . ."

Andy stopped as his gaze followed Donald's. Both sat spell-bound, and the others joined them quietly.

The panorama spread before them was singularly wild and impressive. Below them stretched a lake of emerald hue, rippled here and there by occasional cat's-paws, but for the most part, placid enough to reflect the shores with mirror-like clearness. To their right lay an open valley, through which ran a crystal clear mountain stream, its banks fringed with willow, alder and blooming Labrador tea. A rustic bridge of logs crossed the rushing stream to a cluster of well-built log cabins that were fenced in by a pallade of cedar posts.

Inside the enclosure a patch of freshly ploughed soil stood out rich and dark against the carpet of green. Under the azure sky, dotted with fleecy clouds, a brilliantly white skyline of ice-covered mountains, whose peaks flashed in the setting sun, circled this beautiful mountain valley.

From below were wafted the odours of an awakening earth. The sweet perfume of the newly-opened and sticky buds of the halm-of-gilded, the delicious aroma of the spruce and pine, the heavy, sweet smell of the water plants and the white orchids; all this fragrance was borne on the crisp, sparkling mountain air. Involuntarily the travellers filled their lungs with this life-giving atmosphere.

A beautiful gold-eye drake and his drab-coloured mate swam along the shore in search of a safe place to nest. From the centre of the lake a loon sent out its weird cry, echoing and re-echoing from the wooded hills like wild demoniacal laughter. A quick rush of wings overhead, then a muffled crash struck the water with a loud splash and immediately

TARTAR

You are faithful in your mouth toilet, brushing your teeth at least daily, but you still find deposits forming back of your lower teeth, to which the tongue continually goes because of their roughness, and which you cannot remove by brushing, try as you will.

How, what is this? "Tartar," so called, is salivary calculus, and as its name implies, it enters the mouth through the saliva. The fresh deposit is soft and can be washed or brushed away when first it settles. This brushing must be done, however, within from five to twelve hours of its appearance, since, remaining longer it begins to "set."

The calculus increases in bulk through more or less repeated accumulations until often large and thick masses of it are formed; these, pressing upon the soft gum tissues, cause them to become inflamed, which inflammation progressing, may lead to the ultimate loss of the teeth.

Now, three "words" more—These deposits do not appear in every mouth, nor where calculus does occur, is it found constantly. "Tartar" is found generally on the "inside" of the lower incisors and cusps and on the "outside" of the upper first and second molar teeth, the reason for this being that these localities are opposite the mouths of the salivary ducts.

Lastly—once calculus has formed, its removal can be accomplished only through the medium of special instruments in the hands of the dentist. But if you are about to tartar, a faithful brushing following each meal especially of these areas, will do much towards keeping the deposits down to the minimum.

Remote Control

"Have you ever driven a car?" the lady applicant for a license was asked. "One hundred and twenty thousand miles" put in her husband, who was standing near by, "and never had her hand on the wheel."

"Are you an American citizen, Pat?"

"Faith OI am that. OI was born in Tipperary, but on the Fourth of July."

Little Helps For This Week

"Therefore will not we fear."—Psalm xlii, 2.

I see the germ to the sunlight reach, And the nestlings know the old bird's speech;

I see the hare from the danger hide, And the stars through the pathless spaces ride;

I do not see that they have a guide. He is eyes for all who is eyes for the mole.

All motion goes to the rightful goal: O God! I can trust for the human soul.—Charles G. Ames.

The providence of God, that cares for the universe as a whole, that takes it at the beginning and holds it to the consummation, that we cannot see or know, that we can only dimly guess,—this same mighty, all-grasping affair; not simply nations, not simply cities, not simply families, but you and me, the leaf on the tree, the bird that sings on the bough, the flower that springs out of the sod.—M. J. Savage.

George G. Wakeham, of Ottawa, inspector of the air services of Canada, in an address at the Dominion aviation conference on the development of harbors and seaplane stations, declared that the government does not intend to make any financial contribution to such works. He forecast, however, government action on the installation and maintenance of illumination apparatus necessary, not only in airports, but along airways.

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD

Always drive fast out of alleys.
Always race with locomotives to crossings. Engineers like it, it breaks the monotony of their job.

Always pass the car ahead on blind curves or turns.

Demand half the road—the middle half. Insist on your rights.

Always speed; it shows people you are a man of pep, even though an amateur driver.

Never stop, look or listen at railway crossings. It consumes time.

Drive confidently, just as though there were not eighteen million other cars in service.

Always lock your brakes when skidding. It makes the job more artistic.

Always pass cars on hills. It shows you have more power; and you can turn out if you meet a car at the top.

In sloppy weather, drive close to pedestrians. Dry cleaners appreciate it.

Never look around when you back up. There is never anything behind you.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee Oklahoma)

H. W. Archer, editor of the Manchester (England) Evening News, says:

"That if you must make a song about what you do, you need not make a gramophone record of it."

The rolling stone gathers no moss, but at all events it isn't a tombstone.

If you cannot keep your head up you may as well put your hands up.

Soap box oratory is not the only kind that suggests bubbles.

It is no good hiding your lights under a bushel if you want to sell gas fittings or electric shades and globes.

A man whose heart is in his pants naturally hesitates to put his foot down.

There is plenty of room at the top, but the distance from the bottom to the top is much greater than the distance from the top to the bottom. Euclid overlooked this.

If the disguised big game hunter persists, we shall soon have to regard new novels as works of fiction.

Many a man has gone up in the world through treading on a banana skin.

Advice is easy to give but hard to take. Beware of adopting the easy course. Other men's opinions are often better than your own and the man who talks to himself for such a long time that he thinks he has been listening to someone else needs a change.

WILLINGTON LINE COMPLETED TO EDMONTON

Closing the last link of the C.P.R. Cutknife - Whitford Lake Line, construction of the seventy-mile section from Willington to Edmonton was completed during the past week.

Large quantities of grain have been stored in the elevators along this line and a heavy movement is expected when the road is opened for traffic. In all some 100 elevators have been constructed at the town-sites along this new line to handle the grain production of the rich territory thus opened up.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WILL SPEND $2,000,000 FOR LEVEL CROSSINGS SAFETY

OTTAWA, Nov. 20. — Appropriations totalling $2,000,000 for level crossing improvements will be made by the Federal Government during the next ten years, Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of railways, announced yesterday. The first instalment of $200,000 will be provided at the forthcoming session of parliament.

Limitations which restricted the application of the grade crossing fund were removed at the last session, Mr. Dunning pointed out, and the further sum of $1,968,984.74 has been made available. This represents the unspent balance from the $4,000,000 contributed during the last twenty years by the government.

So far in 1928, railroads and municipalities have spent almost as much on level crossings protection as they did in the whole of the preceding 26 years, Mr. Dunning declared. The railroads have spent $2,744,000, as compared with $3,239,000 for the 20 year period ending December 31st last. The municipalities contributed $2,853,000, as compared with $2,730,000 for the 20 years. The latter figure includes $591,000 spent by the provincial governments.

Grade crossings assisted from the fund this year number 102, bringing the total to 1030 since 1909. It is estimated that there are 30,102 crossings in Canada, of which 25,591 are rural and 4511 urban.

Crossing accidents during the first nine months of this year were 242, despite redoubled efforts to cope with the situation. For the whole of 1927 the figure was 310.

The fund first became available on April 1st, 1909, and is under the administration of the Dominion Railway Board. The board has power to make orders for the protection of the public at railway crossings and to apportion the cost between the federal fund, the railways and the municipalities.

The maximum payment from the fund has been raised from $25,000 to $100,000 for each crossing on a 40 per cent basis.

INFORMATION FOR SPORTSMEN

Attention is drawn by Benjamin Lawton, provincial game commissioner, to a number of clauses in the Game Act which are being wrongly interpreted in some quarters.

Mr. Lawton points out that nowhere in Alberta is there an open season for beaver and there is no open season for muskrat in that part of the province lying to the south of the North Saskatchewan River. Between that river and Township 91 the open season for muskrat will be during the months of March and April, while to the north of Township 91 the season will be during March and April and the first fifteen days of May.

The open season on Hungarian partridge is during the months of October and November. It may also be noted that big game hunters may bring out their trophies, such as heads, hides and hoofs, of big game animals lawfully killed by them, separate from the carcass.

INTOXICATED DRIVERS

England's campaign against intoxicated automobile drivers took on a drastic form when the magistrate of a southwestern London police court imposed the maximum penalty on Horace Andrews, the proprietor of a moving picture house in Putney. Andrews was disqualified from driving for life, when he was convicted on the charge of driving dangerously. A previous conviction had been proved against the accused, who was also fined $250 and $50 costs.

TWO HUNDRED BUFFALO TO BE KILLED

Some 200 of the thousand head of buffalo in Elk Island Park, east of Edmonton, will be slaughtered during the month of December in order to keep the size of the herd within the carrying capacity of the park pasture. It is expected that most of the meat thus secured will be shipped north in the form of pemmican, to provide food for the Eskimo inhabitants of the Northwest Territories as a result of the growing demand from this source following trial shipments made last year.

"Her Grace"

A certain duchess owed a bill to a milliner, and the latter's little daughter was sent to collect it.

"Be sure to say, 'Your Grace,' to the duchess," said the mother, and the child promised to remember.

When, after long waiting, she was ushered into the presence of the duchess, the little girl made a low curtsy, and then folding her hands and closing her eyes, said, softly:

"For what I am about to receive, may I be truly thankful."—Tit-Bits

A Wesleyan Methodist missionary in India wrote to the girl he loved, asking her to come out and marry him. The girl's aunt had the same name. She got his letter and left Frank for India. The missionary met her on the quay and such was his delicacy of mind that he married her. When she died years afterwards, he married the niece. This is the classic graceful act of the age.

Well Packed

A lady and her little daughter were walking through a fashionable street when they came to a portion strewn with straw, so as to deaden the noise of vehicles passing a certain house.

"What's that for, ma?" said the child, to which the mother replied: "The lady who lives in that house has had a little baby girl sent her."

The child thought a moment, looked at the quantity of straw, and said: "Awfully well packed, wasn't she, ma."

Argosies of Magic Sails

"Bug" Bear was the first shipment to be handled by the Canadian Pacific Express Company over the Montreal-New York Airway. The general view is of the St. Hubert airport, Montreal, showing some of the planes engaged in air transport. Inset is a close up of one of the cabin monoplane more generally used.

"Faint into the future, far as human eye could see. Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be:

Saw the heavens filled with commerce, argosies of magic sails. Pilot of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales."

As he watched the very recent departure of the first airplane to take off on the regular daily express service between Toronto, Montreal and New York, T. E. McDonnell, president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, thought that in these lines, Tennyson had envisioned the present age, when "winged messengers of peace and commerce cross the imaginary line unchallenged."

T. E. McDonnell himself has a vision of the future when the travelling and shipping public will have a greater "air-mindedness," and the service which his Company has pioneered will have developed into an economic factor of tremendous proportions. "To just what proportions the air express service will be developed immediately, Mr. McDonnell would not commit himself, but "air transportation must be seriously taken into account if one would keep abreast of the times," he said. At present regular air express service is maintained by the Canadian Pacific between Rimouski, Quebec, Montreal, New York, Ottawa and Toronto in the east and Winnipeg and Calgary in the west, and these routes are very much appreciated and patronized.

The views of the president of the Canadian Pacific at a time when air events and features are filling the columns of the daily press are not without interest. "Aviation as a factor in commercial transportation has arrived and henceforth must be reckoned with on that basis," Mr. Beatty recently stated. "We have watched its development with keen interest, and while it is not possible clearly to see just in what direction or how far progress may be effected in the near future, it has already taken its place as one of the major transport agencies. Whatever may happen in the distant future, it seems to me that at the present time there is little or no prospect of aviation assuming a seriously competitive attitude towards present day modes of transport. It is rather as an auxiliary service to railroads and steamships that it is likely to function for some time to come. The Canadian Pacific, he added, has already recognized this fact by the establishment in conjunction with the Government, of an air express service and upon the success of this service will hang future developments as far as this Company is concerned. In this connection, as throughout its history, the Canadian Pacific is doing a pioneer work in Canada. We are closely watching the development of aviation in the belief that Canada with its widely scattered centres of population offers a particularly promising field for its employment."

Air transport is, of course, faster than any other and although the dearer availability of some reckless, stunt-piloting resulting in injury and loss of life has earned front page prominence on occasion, it is safer than automobile transport.

"Argosies of magic sails" is not a distant vision.

The action of Magistrate Sandow, of Calgary, in meting out the lash as part of the treatment to holdups is surely to be commended. Nothing short of the lash will ever put a stop to the crime wave existing in Alberta, prison terms serving but an opportunity for the criminals to plan further action.

AGED FARMER SUICIDES NEAR LUNDBRECK

The community of Lundbreck received a shock on Wednesday morning when the news spread of the death of Harry Coulter, residing for a number of years on the old Crayford ranch, about three miles north of Lundbreck.

Coulter was in his eighty-fifth year and became despondent over his failing health, deciding at last to end all by hanging himself.

The matter was at once reported to the police at Blairmore, who with Coroner Morrison responded.

There will be no inquest and the remains will likely be laid to rest in the Cowley cemetery tomorrow.

"What was the denomination of that bill you loaned me?"

"Episcopalian, I guess. It keeps lent."

You could see the muse struggling for utterance as he feelingly parodies: "The melancholy days are here, The saddest of all the year— A little too warm for whiskey And a little too cold for beer."

It's strange, but nevertheless a fact, that you can take a shotgun and shoot at one leg of a pair of balloon trousers and make a lady's dress from the piece of cloth blown out.

The teacher had brought a glass bowl containing goldfish to school. "Now," she said, "can any one tell me what a goldfish is?"

"Yes, teacher," replied a little girl. "It's a sardine that has got very rich."

Hanting a Husband

Miss Browne: "I frankly admit I am looking for a husband."

Mrs. Greene: "So am I."

Miss B.: "But I thought you had one?"

Mrs. G.: "I have, and I spend most of my time looking for him."

Pete McPherson called at a house in South Blairmore the other day. Knocking at the door, a lady appeared and immediately remarked: "I'm not expecting any package!"

Pete: "This is the number and the name is Smith, isn't it?"

Lady: "It must be a clear case of mistaken identity!"

Pete: "No, mum. It's a case of beer."

Provided Ample Supply

It was his first sermon, and the young curate was anxious to present a favorable appearance. Smoothing his hair, he said to the old verger: "could you get me a glass? A small one will do."

The verger hurried away and soon returned, holding something concealed under his coat. "I know what nervousness is sir," he said; "here's a whole bottle."

NOW'S THE TIME

"I expect to pass through the world but once. Any good thing, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness I can show to any fellow-human being, let me do it now. Let me not defer nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."—Stephen Grouet.

Canada On Easy Street

Hon. James A. Robb, Dominion Minister of Finance, is credited with the terse comment, "Canada is on easy street," when making announcement last month that before due date, the Treasury had paid off $22,000,000 of the $53,000,000 short term bonds falling due on October 15, last, and that the balance would be paid on due date out of cash on hand in the Treasury. Even so, said Mr. Robb, there would be "some left over" and he had reason to hope, "if Providence continues kind to us and gives us good crops, and business keeps just as good as it is now, without even getting any better," to take care of further maturities coming along from now till 1933.

In other words, out of current revenues and without having to resort to the issue of refunding loans, Canada was able to pay off $53,000,000 of its public debt this year. And this does not represent the full amount of the debt reduction that has been effected this year, with a consequent lowering of the interest burden.

In the short period of six years the public debt has been reduced to an extent that means a lessening of the burden of interest annually in an amount of almost $15,000,000. And if Mr. Robb's expectations for the next five years are realized an equal large, or even larger, amount will be lopped off by 1933.

The most gratifying feature, however, is that this substantial reduction in debt and in annual interest charges has been achieved, not as a result of increased taxation, but concurrent with a general decrease in taxation, including lowering of tariff schedules, a lighter tax on business profits, reductions in the sales tax, smaller income taxes, reduced postage rates, smaller stamp levies on cheques, and the abolition of stamp duties on receipts. In a word, the removal of restrictions on the business of the country has been helpful in the development of business, and, as a direct consequence, larger revenues to the Government.

Another important factor has been the really phenomenal improvement in the management and finances of the Canadian National Railways as a result of which the Dominion Treasury is no longer called upon to pay out huge sums to cover operating deficits and in interest to the public on account of railway bonds and debentures. On the contrary, the C.N.R. now accumulates an ever increasing surplus to apply on its past obligations to the Government.

The year now drawing to a close will, it is confidently expected, disclose a record year in the history of the Canadian National Railways, while President Beatty is authority for the statement that 1928 will, in all probability, prove to be the banner year in the history of the Canadian Pacific.

A perusal of the press of Canada, and particularly of all financial journals in which are recorded the annual reports of the banks, trust, loan, mortgage and insurance companies, and all the large manufacturing and industrial concerns of the Dominion, discloses the fact that one and all are enjoying great prosperity, enormously increased business and substantial profits.

No one circumstance can be credited with the whole responsibility for this magnificent showing, although it is safe to say that the great grain production of the West, coupled with the betterment in the life stock industry, the increase in dairying, and other branches of agricultural expansion, form the background, and is largely responsible for the general speeding up in the whole business of the country, and is occasioning the transfer of other lines of industry from the East to various centres in the West.

The general betterment is the result, as Mr. Robb frankly recognizes, of a beneficent Providence without whose aid all man's efforts must come to naught. It is due, also, to the courage, industry and enterprise of the Canadian people, and to some extent to the steady improvement in world economic conditions, inasmuch as Canada is dependent so largely upon its export trade.

Present conditions are, therefore, good and sound, and future prospects are very bright. It remains for the people of Canada to take full advantage of the situation, not to rest on their oars, but to plan and work in order that our rosy expectations for the coming years may be fully realized. Every reduction in the public debt, every dollar saved in interest charges, every item of taxation lowered or wiped out, means further relief to all people and a further incentive to still larger development and growth. It is, therefore, to everybody's advantage and gain to work together in national co-operation.

West Coast Fisheries

The pilchard recording industry on the west coast of Vancouver Island records an advance of 50 per cent. in production this year as compared with last, with an output of 16,000 tons of meal, and 3,500,000 gallons of oil. Within the past three years the number of plants have increased from five to 22.

Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise. The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn now—why this method is supreme. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

A Delicate Operation

Eyes Successfully Grafted On Person Who Regains Sight

One of the most delicate operations known to medical science proved at least partially successful when Bert Ferguson, of New York City, once blind, looked dimly at the world through another man's eyes. Ferguson's one eye failed him several weeks ago and doctors, in an effort to restore his sight, decided to transplant the cornea from another eye.

Charles Greenblatt, whose eye was removed because of a tumor, offered it to the surgeons and the cornea, still alive, was removed and grafted to Ferguson's member.

The medical world awaited the result anxiously and there was great interest today when the bandages were removed.

Ferguson was able to distinguish objects ten feet away. Surgeons said the development of sight and the permanent success of the operation would depend upon the ability of Ferguson's optic tissue to nourish the cells of the grafted cornea.

WHEN YOUNG GIRLS GROW PALE AND THIN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Should Be Taken To Enrich the Blood

When girls grow weak, pale and thin, parents should not neglect these symptoms; to do so means danger. The girl in her teens cannot develop into robust womanhood without an abundant supply of rich red blood in her veins. It is the lack of this that is the great trouble with nine girls out of ten. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the world's best remedy for their remarkable blood-making properties. In these pills there is vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes for every weak girl. The value of the pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Winifred Ruffy, Easton street west, Hamilton, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my eldest girl got into very bad health. I took her to a doctor who advised having her tonsils removed, saying this was the seat of the trouble. We had them removed, but it did not help her, and she seemed to have absorbed so much poison from the trouble that she did not pick up at all. She could neither eat nor sleep, and what food she did take did not digest. Then she developed a cough that kept her awake at night, and went down in weight to 85 pounds. A neighbor said to me, 'You have tried so many things why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I got the pills and she finished the second box she began to show improvement. She continued the use of the pills for some time and is now in the pink of condition, able to work and play, and eat and sleep with all her old-time vigor. These statements can be verified by neighbors who watched her restored from ill health to perfect health."

If your medicine dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Major Burwash To Carry On Investigations in Arctic Regions

In the bleak and frozen reaches of Canada's Arctic regions an intrepid and experienced explorer of the department of interior will labor during the long winter months, collecting valuable data and otherwise add to the knowledge of conditions among the wards of the Dominion, the Eskimo. The investigator is Major L. T. Burwash, of the Northwest Territories and Yukon branch who early in June of this year left Ottawa on his distant mission.

Following a long trip to Akkavik in the delta of the Mackenzie River, the explorer conducted a preliminary survey of that country before proceeding into the Arctic proper.

According to wireless reports received from a government station in the North, Major Burwash now has established his winter base on Boothia peninsula, from where he will carry out his investigations around King William Island, and on the mainland.

A survey of a proposed tractor route between Cockburn and Wager Bays will also be made. This project is being investigated with a view to ascertaining the possibilities of bringing in supplies for posts on the Arctic coast by way of the Hudson Bay and overland by tractor, rather than by the present long and hazardous route through the Behring Sea and the Northern coast of Alaska.

In May, 1929, Major Burwash will sail northward on the government auxiliary schooner Ptarmigan to investigate navigation conditions in the Franklin Strait and Peel Sound. He plans to join the annual Canadian Arctic expedition in the summer of 1929 with which he will return to civilization.

Chicken Hatcheries For Alberta

Company plans To Establish Hatcheries At Several Points In the Province

A chicken hatchery on a large scale is to be established in Alberta, according to L. M. Gaetz, a member of the firm of Canadian Hatcheries, Limited, of Vancouver, and a recent visitor to Edmonton. He stated that the plan of the company was to establish, eventually, hatcheries at several points in the province, where there is unlimited scope for the raising of high quality strains; also for eggs and poultry.

British Market Is Large

Canada Might Send Greater Supplies Of Farm Produce

The Farmers' Sun says: "Great Britain imported dressed poultry to the value of £1,204,702 during January to August, 1928. Towards that amount Canada contributed poultry to the value of £11,978. During the same period Great Britain imported eggs (in shell) to the value of $10,999,385. Canada supplied $24,923 worth. Canada's contribution in each instance is infinitesimal and could be greatly extended. As regards butter the comparison is even more striking, as for the period January to August, 1928, the total imports were valued at $37,411,498, towards which Canada sent butter valued at $13,659. Agricultural produce in large quantities is being supplied to Great Britain by foreign countries, including the United States of America, which shipped dead poultry to the value of $911,929 during the eight months mentioned."

DIRIGIBLE BEST POSSIBILITY FOR OCEAN FLIGHTS

Ottawa, Ont.—On the success of the projected flight of the dirigible R-100 from England to Canada next spring will largely depend the future of inter-empire air communication. Air Marshal Sir John Salmons, R.C.A.F., stated in an interview here.

The distinguished British air official spent the day in Ottawa on his way home from Australia and called upon Hon. J. L. Ralston, minister of national defence.

"The dirigible appears to offer the best possibility for ocean flights at present," he said. "The future will probably see multi-motored aeroplanes capable of making such flights with safety, but for the next ten years the lighter-than-air machine seems best."

Australia was anxiously awaiting the result of the projected flight to Canada, he continued. A flight would later be made from England to the Antipodes via Egypt.

Proposed Wool Pool

Alberta Wool Growers May Organize On Co-Operative Marketing Plan

Edmonton.—Wool growers of Alberta who are proposing to organize a co-operative marketing pool on lines similar to those of the Wheat Pool, moved one step nearer that and at a conference with Premier Brownlee at which advice was sought and given on the question of procedure. The meeting, which was a continuation of one held some weeks ago, was attended by representatives of five co-operative selling organizations from the wool growers in different parts of the province.

It was when a wool pool is formed, it will be on a contract basis, like that of the wheat pool, instead of the voluntary basis on which the Alberta growers are now marketing through the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association. Details of the proposed new plan were discussed, including especially the contract terms and Mr. Brownlee addressed the wool men as to how an effective organization might be built up. It is likely that definite action will be taken in the near future.

Prospect For Further Reduction In Taxes

Increase In Revenue Makes Cut Next Year Probable

Ottawa.—Prospects for further substantial tax reductions next year are said to be improving with the increasing receipt of revenue collected by the customs department. In September the customs receipts showed an increase of over two million dollars over September, 1927. In October the customs receipts are said to be up by over three and half millions.

The seven months collections from customs are up by over seventeen and a quarter million dollars. Despite tariff reductions in the last budget. A percentage of the increase is due to the bigger percentage of collections of money due and a curbing of customs dodging.

The October excise collections will when published show an increase of over three-quarters of a million over October, 1927.

The excise taxes are down about fifty thousand but this is credited to the substantial reductions in the tax itself which this year amounted to 25 per cent. The net increase for the seven months, however, is nearly three and three quarters millions. All government departments are said to have been instructed to prepare their estimates carefully, and this is now being done so that with an increase in the revenue even under reduced taxation and a decrease in the expenditure further tax reductions will be included in the 1929 Budget.

New Zealand Elections

Government Forces Under Premier Coates Receive Setback

Wellington, N.Z.—Prohibition was defeated by a majority of around 100,000 votes and the government forces under J. G. Coates, prime minister, suffered a severe setback in the election.

Prohibition was on the ballot in the form of a referendum as to whether a licensing system should be adopted. The vote was overwhelmingly against continuance of prohibitions.

A new united party under the leadership of Sir Joseph Ward made its debut by gaining seats from Premier Coates' party all over the Dominion.

The final standing by parties was: Government, 26; United party, 26; Labor, 20; Independents, 6.

Most of the Independents are opposed to the government. The premier's party failed to gain a single seat. It held 53 of the 80 seats in the last parliament.

The new united party combines Liberals, Nationalists and others opposed to the reform and Labor parties.

Three ministers lost their seats—A. D. McLeod, minister of lands; O. J. Hawken, minister of agriculture, and J. F. Ralston, minister of justice.

Grain Inquiry Commission

Royal Commission In Saskatchewan To Probe Methods Of Grain Mixing and Grading

Regina.—Definite announcement of the appointment and powers of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission directed by the Saskatchewan Government to investigate the present method and system of grading, mixing, handling and marketing of grain was made by Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture.

The commission consists of Chief Justice J. T. Brown, of the Court of King's Bench, of Saskatchewan; who is named as chairman, John A. Stoneman, Saskatchewan, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, and Dean W. J. Rutherford, head of the College of Agriculture at the University of Saskatchewan.

Public sittings of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission will open at country points in Saskatchewan during the first week in December and will be continued as long as is necessary to enable farmers to present their cases.

Lava Flow Diminishing

Natives In Mount Etna Region Meeting Changed Conditions

Giare, Sicily.—With the lava flow from Mount Etna diminishing hourly in intensity, natives of the stricken region are gradually reorganizing their economic life to meet the new conditions that nature has forced upon them.

There was some talk of tunnelling through the lava which has spread over the road as soon as the molten stream cooled and its flow subsided. This would restore the severed railway to normal service. One of the most radiant over the diminution of the lava flow was Leonardo Patane, whose age is 100, and who is known as the "Granda of Nuziatu." This intrepid centenarian steadily refused to budge from the threatened village. He proclaimed to the last and sundry that he would be the last to leave. Now he is exhibiting a broad and toothless grin, saying, "I told you so" in Sicilian dialect to all visitors.

Wheat Crop Estimated At Half A Billion

Figures Given For Canada's Production This Year

Ottawa.—Canada's wheat crop for 1928 is placed at 500,613,000 bushels in the crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of statistics. Last year's total was 404,024,700 bushels.

The crop of fall wheat this year is given as 18,966,000 bushels as compared with 22,226,000 bushels last year. Spring wheat total for this year is 481,947,000 bushels as against 417,758,000 bushels the year before.

PLACE FOR THIS DOMINION IN EMPIRE AFFAIRS

Montreal.—A willingness to share the responsibilities which in the earlier stages of Imperial development Britain bore alone is the obligation which Canada and other Dominions should be ready to meet for the development in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

This is the message which Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of foreign affairs in the British government, left with the people of Canada before he left Montreal for Quebec, en route to England.

"There is room in our Commonwealth," said Sir Austen, "for the fullest development of Canadian nationality."

"We welcome your co-operation in all fields, and not least in the field of foreign affairs; you must study them. You must take an interest which will make your papers afford you all the information necessary to enable you to form a judgment and you must be willing to share the responsibilities which in the earlier stages of Imperial development we have had to bear alone."

"We shall welcome your assistance and even your criticism. But let it not be criticism only after the event, but a real partnership in forming the decisions."

Search For Small Continues

May Use Steam Shovel To Dig For Remains Of Missing Millionaire

Toronto, Ont.—Patrick Sullivan, special agent for the Misses Small, sisters of Ambrose J. Small, missing millionaire, may secure, he is said, a steam shovel outfit from Bolton, Ont. to excavate the Rosedale dump where both Sullivan and Dr. Langsner, criminologist, believe the remains can be found.

Sullivan anticipates that the work of excavating the dump will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000.

Despite previous assurances that he had abandoned his enquiry into the disappearance of Small, Langsner will return to Toronto from Montreal for further work upon the world-famous mystery, it is learned here.

"I have been in touch with Langsner and he tells me that he will be back here at work on the case before the middle of next week, perhaps before," Sullivan said.

May Move Weather Bureau

Headquarters Of Department Likely To Be at Ottawa

Ottawa.—With the retirement of Sir Frederick Rupert, director of the meteorological service of Canada, on January 1 next, it is expected that the headquarters of his department will be removed from Toronto to Ottawa. The growing service of the bureau to navigation, forest firefighting, the work done by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and more recently the aeroplane traffic together with the fact that all the other important branches of the weather service are located here, are given as the reason for the change.

TRAGIC STORY OF SINKING OF LINER VESTRIS

New York.—Two shiploads of survivors of the Lampert and Holt liner "Vestris" arrived here, unfolded details of one of the most horrible of marine disasters.

An official inquiry has been ordered, based upon their "almost unanimous charges of inefficiency, indecision and delay against Captain William J. Carey and his crew."

Interpreted in narratives of heroism—and of brutality—of narrow escape and hanging, invariably appeared assertions that if proper steps had been taken by the ship's executives and crew, most if not all of the 108 now dead would be alive.

Even with the S.O.S. call too long delayed, efficient handling of the "Vestris" life-saving equipment by those responsible would have brought most of the 108 out of danger, declared survivors.

Those are charges which United States Attorney Tuttle announced he will begin to investigate.

But Captain Carey probably had his reasons, yet he will never tell them. For forty years he had sailed in Lampert and Holt steamers. He "came up" through the "fo'castle," as the sailors say, starting as a deck boy, advancing to ordinary seaman, then an able seaman, and finally "winning his ticket" and putting on the gold braid of an officer of the line.

When he took the "Vestris" out of port he was the ranking master of the Lampert and Holt fleet.

Two days later he stood on the bridge and knew his ship was gone. For the first time in his forty years at sea, Captain Carey gave the order to abandon ship. He never had lost a boat before. He stood at the rail and directed the mates as they had the boats lowered away.

He saw two boats loaded with "women and children first"—the first two boats to be put over-side. He saw them capsized and crumpled in the smoking sea.

He saw other boats get away safely with men from the passenger list and members of the crew aboard them.

He saw Lionel Licorish, a gigantic negro from the Barbados, leap into the water and save 10 people by pulling them to the sides of waiting lifeboats. He saw Archibald Bannister dive overboard and climb into an empty boat which had gone adrift and then coak and drag into it a full load of 22 persons. He heard women scream and saw men quake with fear. He saw human life fade out around him.

And all the time the first ship he had ever lost was settling deeper and deeper into the sea.

At last all were gone. One boat remained by the ship's side, a place in it for Captain Carey and another for Mike O'Loughlin, his chief radio officer.

But those were never taken. Carey probably was the last man who saw O'Loughlin alive. That gallant officer was last seen still at his key near the master's bridge, the hiss of the radio's spark was still mingling with the hiss of the sea which lapped upon the settling decks. O'Loughlin probably leaped into the sea and was sucked down by the ship. But this to Carey—40 years with one line and this his first disaster—was the end.

Bent beneath his tremendous burden, he stood at the rail, the survivors said, as the water reached up for him and his ship.

There were lifeboats and lifeboats all around him—the things might have saved his life.

But Carey chose the course which many another true deep water sailor had chosen. He leaped into the sea and as the vessel went under water Captain Carey went with it—a dead ship going down with a dead ship still in command.

SUPERB COURAGE OF RADIO MAN BEYOND PRAISE

New York, N.Y.—The work of Noel O'Loughlin, radio operator of the ill-fated steamer Vestris, places him among the immortal heroes of sea disasters, in the opinion of veteran seamen and radio men.

O'Loughlin, a young Irishman, under 30, and little known here, was according to survivors of the tragedy off the Carolina coast, one of the last to jump from the liner but he undoubtedly was lost.

Lieut. Elbert C. Rogers, communication officer of the naval operating base at Old Point Comfort, has this to say of the Vestris operator.

"His courage and his coolness to my mind were superb and beyond any precedent. Had he been less courageous than he was doubtless more than the unfortunate number of lives lost would have been recorded. It is for all of us to revere his memory. I know the navy salutes him."

Chief Radio Man B. N. Harris, of the naval radio station at Hampton Roads, a veteran of 16 years, said this:

"Only a man who has been in trouble at sea can understand just what O'Loughlin accomplished. There was not a radio operator anywhere who did not realize long before the Vestris stood up there, just what a magnificent stand this fellow was making. He worked under the worst conditions and came pretty close to accomplishing the miraculous."

"God, how cool and level-headed he was with everything against him. I don't know of anything like him in my experience."

Time elements vary in the stations here as to when O'Loughlin first sent out the SOS signal and when he closed up, but a fairly accurate estimate is that he started a few minutes after 10 o'clock Monday morning and stuck up to his key until water began to pour into the radio room, about 1:30 that afternoon. At no time, say the local operators, was the Vestris man excited or frantic. An indication of this was found in the last message he sent as recorded by the navy, at the naval operating base. Some reports had him making a somewhat heroic finale, but the text shows nothing in the words themselves. The last O'Loughlin message read:

"Radio shorthand 'V. A.' means simply 'I have nothing more for you.'"

The name of O'Loughlin will be inscribed on the monument in Battery Park, erected to the memory of wireless men, as one who kept the unwritten law of the sea by sticking to his ship until the end. His will be the sixteenth name on list of honor. One of the first is Jack Phillips, the radio operator of the Titanic.

United Grain Growers

Next Annual Meeting Will Be Held In Regina

Calgary.—Next year's annual meeting of the United Grain Growers Ltd., will be held in Regina. It was decided at the closing session of the 1928 annual meeting. The vote to hold the meeting in Regina was practically unanimous.

Two delegates from Regina, Murdoch Cameron, and J. L. Williamson, presented a request from the Regina shareholders that the next annual gathering should be held there. This request was supported by a telegram of invitation from the mayor of Regina and the board of trade of that city.

Next year will be the first occasion upon which the annual meeting of the U.G.G. has been held anywhere else but Winnipeg or Calgary, between which two cities the meetings have alternated for many years.

Cordial votes of thanks to the directors and employees of the company were passed. Expressions of satisfaction were also adopted with regard to the successful results of the past year's business and the present financial condition of the company.

Cathwood Station

Winnipeg.—"Cathwood" will be the name of one of the new stations on the recently constructed Rosewood-Pacifi branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in Saskatchewan. The station is named after Miss Cathwood, of Saskatoon, who brought fame to Canada by her accomplishments at the Olympic games held in Amsterdam this year.

Judge Felix Hebert, French-Canadian, will be first of his race to sit in United States senate. He is Rhode Island's choice.

A bottle picked up by Rev. R. S. Cooper at Sound Island, Placentia Bay, Newfoundland, contained a small strip of paper with faint writing in pencil. Deciphered by Professor Shogge, of the Memorial University, it gave the date and name of the young Czech-Slovakian who hopped off from Berlin last March with two Germans to attempt the westward flight across the Atlantic. The plane was sighted west of England and nothing more was heard of them.

It has been discovered that the air chamber in the larger end of the egg increases in size in direct ratio to the age of the potential chicken. If the egg is placed in a solution of common salt it exhibits and increasing inclination to float with the long axis vertical. A fresh egg lies in almost horizontal position at the bottom of the vessel. An egg five days old shows an elevation of the flat end, so that its long axis forms an angle of 20 degrees. With an egg eight days of age, the angle increases to the age of the potential chicken. If 45 degrees, while an egg which has resided in this unhappy world for 4 months stands straight up in mute protest.

"Are women braver than men?" asks a writer. Well, they are shown an elevation of the flat end, ing more backbone.
